

Acts safe Fact Sheet #2

FIRST AID

1. Establishing the level of first aid required

Address each separate work location (production office, construction shop, studio or locations etc.) and have the appropriate person or supervisor complete the First Aid Assessment at firstaid.actsafe.ca (or obtain forms from Acts safe, Film/TV First Aid Assessment for Film/TV Worksheet and Guidelines or First Aid Assessment for Live Performance Worksheet and Guidelines.)

1. Keep a copy on file with the production office (with safety and first aid records).
2. Have emergency procedures posted at each location in a conspicuous place detailing
 - equipment, attendants, services available
 - how to call or signal first aid
 - the authority of the first aid attendant over the treatment of injured worker and the responsibility of the employer to report injuries to the WorkSafeBC.
 - who is to call for transportation for the injured worker, and the method of transportation and calling, and
 - pre-arranged routes in and out of the workplace and medical treatment.

If you are at a location where its not possible to post the emergency procedures you must find another way to ensure the information is effectively communicated to the worker (ie. 1st AD goes over the procedures for a specific location or shoot).

2. Immediate notice of certain accidents (section 172 of WCB Act)

1. An employer must immediately notify WorkSafeBC of the occurrence of any accident that
 - (a) resulted in serious injury to or the death of a worker,
 - (b) involved a major structural failure or collapse of a building, bridge, tower, crane, hoist, temporary construction support system or excavation,
 - (c) involved the major release of a hazardous substance, or
 - (d) was an incident required by regulation to be reported.
2. Except as otherwise directed by an officer of WorkSafeBC or a peace officer, a person must not disturb the scene of an accident that is reportable under subsection (1) except so far as is necessary to
 - (a) attend to persons injured or killed,
 - (b) prevent further injuries or death, or
 - (c) protect property that is endangered as a result of the accident.

3. Other incidents

Employers must report any of the following incidents to WorkSafeBC within three days:

- A worker is injured and loses consciousness.
- A worker is sent for medical treatment by a first aid attendant or supervisor.
- A worker has an injury or disease that needs medical treatment.
- A worker states that he or she is going to get medical treatment or has already received medical treatment for an injury or disease.
- A worker is (or claims to be) unable to do his or her job because of any injury or disease.
- An artificial limb, eyeglasses, dentures, or hearing aid is broken in the incident.

4. Incident investigations

Incident investigations help determine why an incident happened so the employer can take steps to ensure that it will not recur. Employers are required to investigate and document the following incidents:

- serious incidents
- incidents that result in injuries that need medical treatment
- incidents that have the potential for serious injury

Employers are not required to investigate motor vehicle accidents that occur on public streets or highways; the RCMP or local police generally investigate such accidents.

FORMS

First Aid Report/First Aid Record (55b23)

These are where all injuries are logged; even the minor ones that do not require further attention or paperwork. These records should be handed in to Production at the wrap of show and kept for 3 years.

Form #7- Employers Report of Injury or Occupational Disease

As an employer, the Workers Compensation Act requires you to submit this report within three days of an injury to one of your workers, even if you disagree with the claim. By submitting your report promptly, you avoid penalties and delays in the adjudication of the claim.

This can be filled out online at:

http://worksafebc.com/claims/report_injury/incident_and_injury_report/default.asp

Incident Investigation Report Form 52E40

This is required when the incident:

- caused an injury requiring medical treatment or
- only minor injury but had the potential for causing serious injury or
- a near miss or
- involved a major structural failure or collapse of a building, bridge, tower, crane, hoist, temporary construction support system or excavation

A copy of this report goes to WorkSafeBC, and a copy goes to your Joint Health and Safety Committee for review and follow up recommendations to prevent the same incident from reoccurring.

Actsafes Fact Sheet #2 FIRST AID

To make reporting easier, WorkSafeBC has an online reporting service which covers all three reports.

The Incident and Injury Report is an online secured service that allows you to submit workplace Incident and injury data (Form 7) and Accident investigation reports. Once you begin the application, you'll only be asked to provide information relevant to your situation and wizards will help you complete the online report. Reports in progress can be saved and updated when you have more information.

Access to this service requires WorkSafeBC registration and signing for secured online services.
